College Views

Emerson Administration Building is the scene of most of the students' intellectual achievements.

Dean Wallace enjoys life anew in Morrison Hall.

Even the boys feel at home in our new parlor.

In Idaho the photographer has to be on the job to find snow on our campus.

Foreword

We present to you N. N. C. as an Oasis where spiritual blessings flow freely, intellectual benefits abound, and social opportunities afford pleasures to all alike. May these pages represent the perpetual spirit of youth and friendliness, the lasting Christian traditions deeply rooted in the past—a college whose cherished memories are unforgettable, whose beloved friendships even distance cannot change.

The Oasis Staff will be very gratified if this book succeeds in retaining a bit of the life and learning that was yours and, if in the years to come, it recalls a vivid memory.

Dedication

Much of the credit for the splendid progress of N. N. C. is due Rev. D. I. Vanderpool, who has been Chairman of the Board of Regents for the past four years.

His Christian character and business ability have been exemplified in all his undertakings for the college.

He has proved himself a leader and has gained the respect of those who have worked with him.

His love for the students and understanding of their problems have won for him a permanent place in the hearts of the student body.

His youthful vision and oneness of purpose have been an inspiration to young and old alike.

His sacrifice and untiring service for the cause of Christ have been deeply felt and appreciated.

Rev. Vanderpool, we appreciate your contribution to N. N. C. and your frequent visits to our campus.

It is with a deep sense of gratitude that we sincerely dedicate to you our 1941 Oasis.

REV. D. I. VANDERPOOL

I've found a friend in N. N. C.,
A friend that's proved most real to me,
For when I came into her doors
She opened wide her richest stores.

I've found a smile at N. N. C.
And everywhere it smiles at me,
For cheer and gladness overflow
Where'er about the place I go.

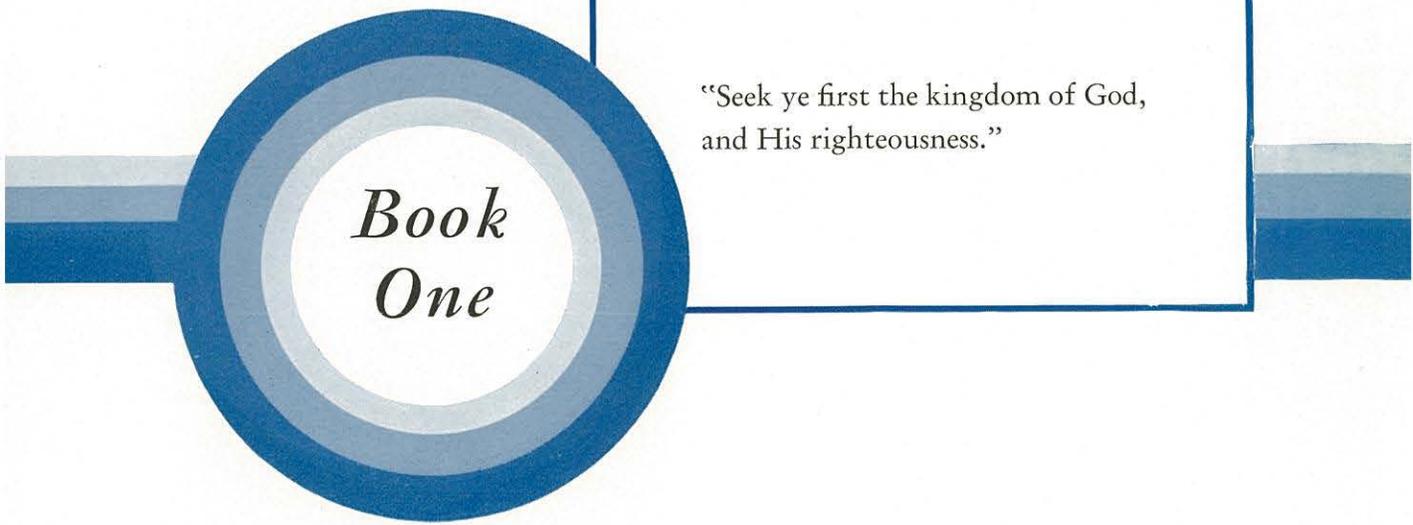

I've found a song at N. N. C.,
Five hundred voices sing to me.
In halls and dorm, in club and lane,
There's someone singing a refrain.

I've found a God at N. N. C.,
For God is revealed in all I see.
He speaks aloud through lives of youth,
Through Christian culture, Christian truth.

A friend, a smile, a song, a God
I take with me as on I plod.
They all shall be more real to me
Because I came to N. N. C.

Onward to the Goal

We'll climb though the rocks be rugged;
We'll clumb though the path may be steep;
We'll push ever upward and onward,
And strive for the goal at the peak.

What if it's dark and stormy?
What if it's hard to climb?
We'll not look backward in fear
Nor stop on the way to pine.

What though grave dangers assail us?
What though clouds darken the skies?
Our faces are set to go forward;
Our eyes are fixed on the prize.

There are those who have gone before us;
There are those who have persevered;
There are those who've offered a hand,
And those who some landmarks have reared.

They are bidding us take courage
In this hard fought battle of life;
For at the top are laurels to be won,
And each has his place in the strife.

Then at the close of the long, long way,
When we've reached the glad home of the soul,
We shall feel content and at peace
Knowing we've triumphed and reached the goal.

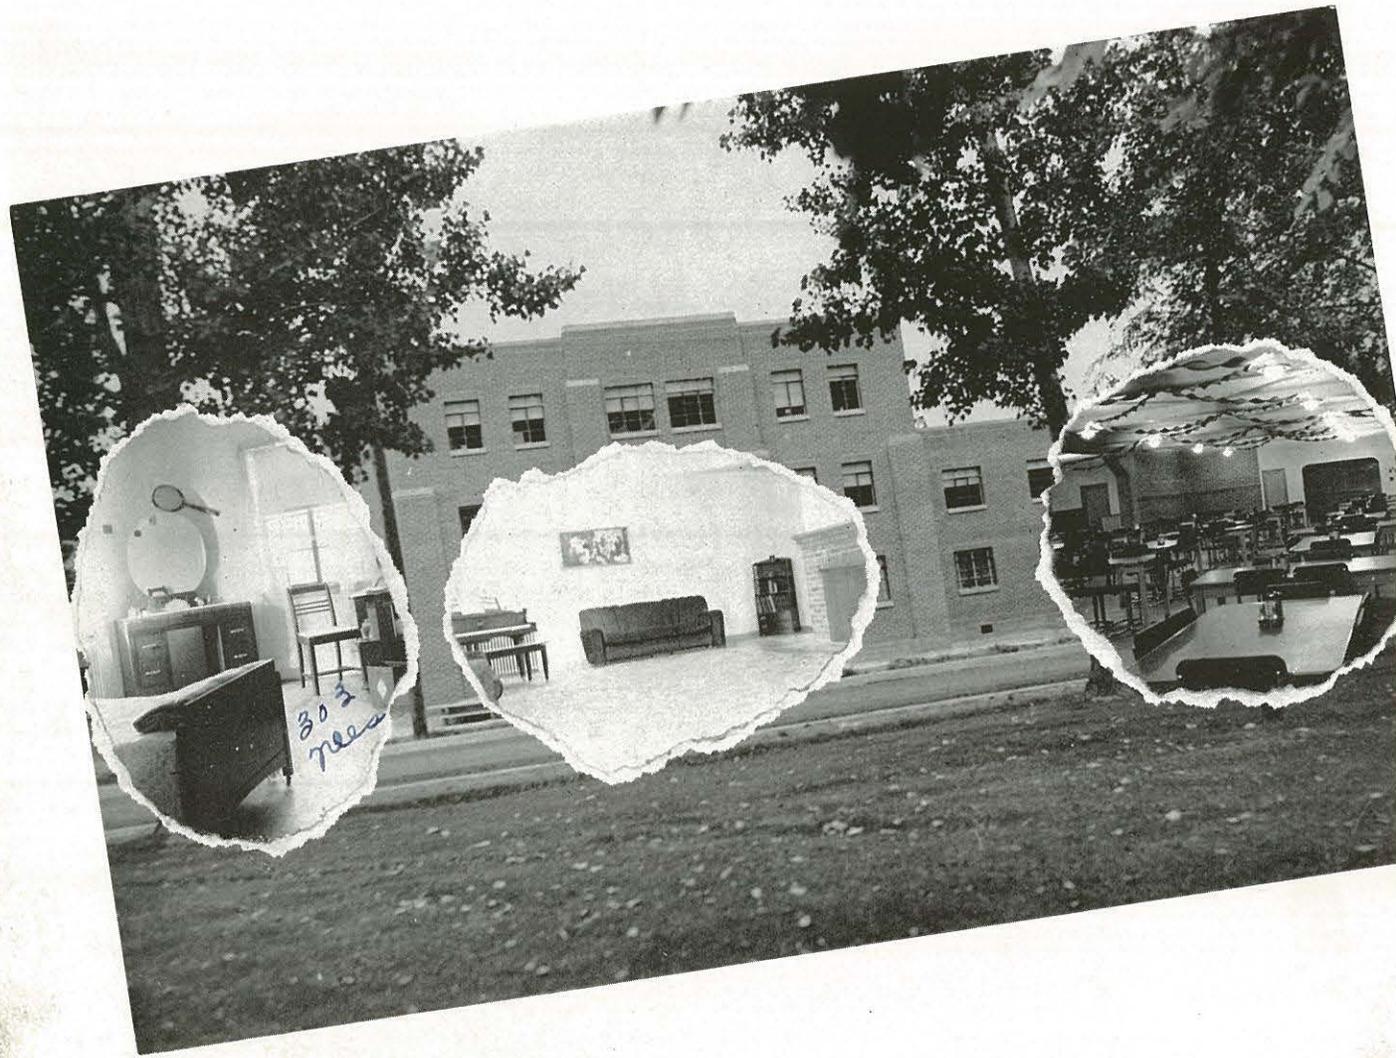

—A. SCOFIELD

Morrison Hall

Two of the principles involved in the dedication of a memorial to an individual have to do first, with the fitness in the relation to the person who is to be honored, and second, with its adequacy and permanence. If Dr. Morrison could choose, he would not choose a great marble shaft set apart from life, but he would want a memorial that has some definite connection with God, with religion, with the Bible, with the relation to the doctrine of holiness, and with the Church of the Nazarene. He would want something that was connected with life, something with life and vitality around it.

Morrison Hall is definitely connected with God and His cause; it is definitely connected with the teaching of the Word of God; it is connected with an institution that is definitely committed to the cause of holiness—that is a very vital part of the Church of the Nazarene, and it certainly has about it every element of adequacy and permanence. It is therefore a fitting memorial to Dr. Morrison.

As one goes through the building, one is impressed with the efficiency, the commodious aspect, and the cultural values of such a dormitory. The large reception room, the attractive open court in the center with the fireplace at one end, and the spacious dining hall all contribute to one's concept of the dignity and esthetic values of the building.

The inviting parlor has floor-length drapes, flowered in rose, and these form a pleasing background to wine davenport and numerous occasional chairs which encircle the room. The sparkle and warmth of a large fireplace brightens the entire space.

The walls of the dining hall are finished with red brick which is matched by the gay stripe around the smooth blue-topped dining tables. Blue leather upholstery on tubular chromium chairs and blue tape on the many venetian blinds complete the festive appearance.

The rooms are charming and reflect the individuality of the occupants in the arrangement, color scheme, and personal nick-nacks.

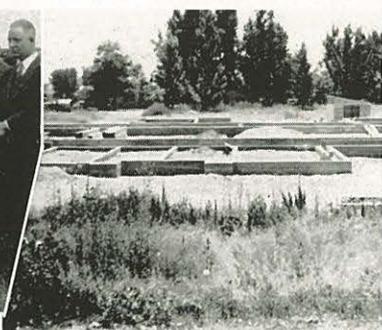

But the physical equipment isn't the last word by any means, for during the year, Morrison Hall has been the scene of many prayer meetings, missionary services, and spiritual feasts.

The full city block upon which Morrison Hall rests, was a gift from the Nampa Chamber of Commerce. The furnishings, costing over $12,000, were made possible through the gifts of scores of churches and individuals. Never has Northwest Nazarene College had a more enthusiastic campaign than the one which made possible the erection of Morrison Hall. The administration, faculty, and student body feel very grateful for all of the prayers, sacrifices, and contributions which made this building possible, and charge themselves to use this beautiful building as dedicated to the service of God.

Master's Department

DR. DELONG

DR. ELLYSON

DR. HARPER

The establishment of a Graduate School in Theology is the most forward step in scholastic work since full accreditation was achieved in the spring of 1937. This department has been organized to supply a long-felt need for advanced work beyond the regular baccalaureate field heretofore provided for those entering the ministry. The Master of Theology degree will be conferred upon those who complete the prescribed two-year course.

Unique in the graduate set-up is the system of internship provided. Each student is required to spend at least four months as an assistant pastor in one of our larger churches. By this method the much needed practical emphasis will be tied in with the more or less theoretical background of the academic subjects. Twelve churches were selected for this particular work and all have responded enthusiastically to the plan.

The initial year of the Graduate School has proved to be very gratifying indeed. Fourteen students have enrolled officially with a few graduating seniors.

Dr. Ellyson, Dr. DeLong, Dr. Harper, Dr. Gardner, and Professor Janosky have been the major professors in the department; they bring to the students an academic background of the highest standard, coupled with years of experience in their respective fields.

The graduate school has undergone a rather laborious metamorphosis made necessary by the inevitable establishment of precedents. The distinctive character of the program of the graduate department has been jealously guarded both in academic and organizational work.

Masters in Theology

J. PAUL ALEXANDER, Th.M.
A.B., Washington State College

J. Paul is known for his study of the profound and weighty subjects of philosophy and religion. Further proof of his love for the substantial, solid, consequential things is his hours of meditation upon "Rock—wood."

EUGENE CULBERTSON, Th.M.
Th.B., Northwest Nazarene College

A keen intellect, a thrilling voice, a sense of humor, a smile, and curly, red hair—who could be so selfish as to ask for more? It's not surprising that Pinky is admired at the first meeting and that the appreciation increases with acquaintance.

DAVID FIGG, Th.M.
Th.B., A.B., Northwest Nazarene College

An even-tempered person with an understanding heart, who has the enthusiasm and originality of Dave is well equipped for service. The evil of the day offers opportunity for such men of vision with strength of purpose.

DUANE MUTH, Th.M.
A.B., Dickinson State Teachers'

He has an accurate sense of the value of truth, and governs his life accordingly. His pleasingly reserved personality is supplemented by a well-meaning, consistent Christian life. He is sincerity personified.

J. FRED PARKER, Th.M.
A.B., Th.B., Northwest Nazarene College

If the popularity which Freddie has gained through his melodious voice and gifted speech is any indication of the recognition he will receive when he leaves, the fact that he's headed for success is evident. The quality and accomplishments of his song and oratory are but an outward expression of his kindly spirit and disciplined mind.

Aeronautics School

We Fly!

This year the college offered a course in aviation under the Civilian Pilot Training Program. The government hired the planes and instructors in order that qualified students might learn the fundamentals of aviation. It was required that they should fly a minimum of thirty-five hours and a maximum of fifty hours to earn a private pilot's license.

Mr. William Woods, a Boise businessman, was contractor for the aviation school; Mr. Allen Platt, one of the best authorities in the Northwest on aeronautics, was flying instructor; Mr. Siefarth was co-ordinator; and Professor Alvin R. Aller taught the ground school course which required seventy-two hours of classwork. In order to qualify for private pilot licenses, the students had to pass a rigid physical examination, a government test in the ground school, and a flight test of spins, power-on and power-off stalls, steep and shallow pylon eighths, spot landings, and potential forced landings.

We who form the aeronautics class started work on the course anxious for the many thrills and breath-taking episodes. With the reverberating roar of a smooth, powerful motor and a swift run down the field, we were off on a flying start. Now, no longer fledglings, we look back on many hours of flying with a background of sky and a vast panorama of country-side with less fortunate earth-bound men who appeared as slow moving ants—this was freedom.

We have enjoyed the association with men trained in the close co-ordination of mind and muscle—steady nerved men who were united by a common bond. We have appreciated the opportunities that were offered us in this course—that men may fly.

Departmental Advances

Like a happy boy at Christmas time, the Music Department has been the favored recipient, this year, of several splendid gifts. At the head of the list we note the gift of the much needed music hall which has rung all year with the welcome sounds of practicing musicians and musical groups. Even before all the students had found their places for the school year, a lovely soft-toned, reed organ was being located in an appropriate room of the music hall. Professor Gale, our excellent organist, is the one whom we heartily thank for this valuable addition to our physical equipment. By being a bit farsighted, the possession of a baby grand and three practice pianos valued at one thousand dollars was made possible on the strength of receiving sufficient returns from the Roland Hayes concert. The baby grand has become a fitting treasure in a beautiful setting—the parlor of Morrison Hall. The worth of two hundred and fifty hymnals presented to us by our Nazarene Publishing House can hardly be estimated in dollars and cents, for their use has paid dividends in a currency far above the material medium of exchange. With the definite note of progress that such giving suggests, it is no wonder, then, that over two hundred students have availed themselves of the benefits in cultural opportunities which the department of music offers.

INTELLECTUAL RETREAT

“Let’s have it quiet in the library please!” Precept upon precept, but still we congregate in the Library to punctuate the study hours with periods of gossip and what-not. For some unknown reason this gaiety is strangely absent in the library during examination weeks, even though we still assemble in the library.

We have enjoyed the benefits which our College has afforded us. The library has been enlarged this year by many noteworthy donations. A splendid gift of books valued at one hundred and fifty dollars was received from the Nazarene Publishing House. Many volumes were donated from the libraries of Clarence True Wilson, Dr. W. C. Nolte, C. A. Benedict, C. A. McKay, and J. O. Schapp. Added to these were donations from the National Education Association and the International Relations Club. Dr. H. V. Miller made a liberal contribution of books for the Graduate Theological Department and provided a subscription to the Religious Book of the Month Club. We are grateful to our college for the purchase of six thousand volumes from Gooding College. In addition to this we received one hundred and fifty dollars worth of new reference books and a 1940 edition of the Americana Encyclopedia. We feel that the outlook for our college library is bright and progressive. With new books and equipment being added to our library every year, we shall have a college library which will prove a credit to our institution.

RARE SCIENTIFIC DONATION

The science department became the recipient of a very extensive collection of biological specimens. In the collection are represented three animal phyla, namely, the Coelenterata, the Mollusca, and the Echinodermata. In addition there is a small group of botanical specimens.

In the Echinoderm section there are sea urchins, brittle stars, crinoids, and several species of star fish.

The Mollusca collection is remarkably complete and extensive. The specimens have been gathered from all over the world and present an outstanding array of beauty, wonder, and variety. The Mollusca collection represents a lifetime task on the part of the collector, Mr. O. A. Benedict of Moscow, Idaho, whose wife recently presented them together with a book collection of 264 volumes to the college.

The collection has been estimated to be worth seven thousand dollars. Not only does it have value from the standpoint of museum exhibition, but it will be an aid to the teaching of courses in biological science.

Doctor's Degrees

DR. H. V. MILLER

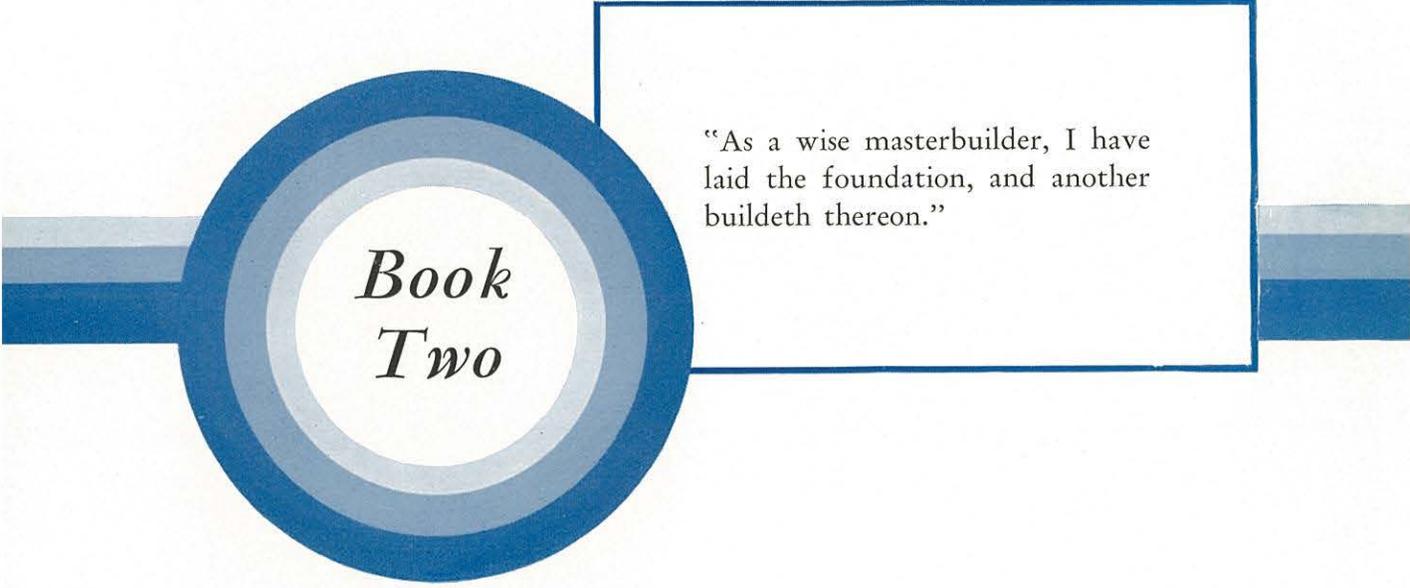

DR. HUGH C. BENNER

Being unanimously nominated by the faculty of Northwest Nazarene College and sincerely approved by the Board of Regents, the Northwest Nazarene College had the privilege of conferring the honorary degree of Doctor of Divinity upon Rev. Hugh C. Benner and Rev. H. V. Miller at Commencement, June 3, 1940.

Dr. H. V. Miller is a graduate of Colgate University and has served as pastor and evangelist in the Baptist Church. Later he was well known as pastor and evangelist of the Church of the Nazarene and for eight years officiated as Superintendent of New England and New York districts. Prior to his appointment to the chair of Dean of Theology at Northwest Nazarene College, he was the pastor of First Church of Chicago for seven years. At this time he was also a member of the general court of appeals. At present he holds the position of a General Superintendent of the Church of the Nazarene.

Dr. Hugh C. Benner is a graduate of Olivet College where he obtained his Bachelor of Arts degree and is also a graduate of the University of Southern California, which conferred upon him his Master of Arts degree. He served as professor of history and music on the faculties of Trevecca Nazarene College, Eastern Nazarene College, and Pasadena College. He has been a very efficient pastor in the Nazarene Church at Santa Monica, California, and Spokane, Washington. For a number of years he has acted as Secretary for the Board of Regents of Northwest Nazarene College.

These two men have proved themselves to be of noteworthy scholastic caliber. Their writings have stirred the hearts of thousands across the nation. We congratulate these outstanding Christian gentlemen and pray that God's richest blessings will continue to rest upon them.

Our President

RUSSELL V. DELONG

A. B., Th.B., M.A., D.D., Ph.D.
Philosophy, Theology

In him we are forcibly made aware of the variegated tints of distinctive personality which have been blended into the character he is today. The truths which have been gleaned reveal that his life base has been laid in the deeper, more intense shades of struggle, misunderstanding, and opposition; but his steel-tipped will has pierced through adverse circumstances and has resolutely projected into spheres of greater challenge. The lives of great men would remind us that the successful life of the present is one that has been purposefully designed and molded in the inner chambers of sacrifice and perseverance.

Sincere and unpretentious expressions are most appropriately descriptive of our President. His words are meaningful and his movements are decisive. He delights particularly in a game of tennis and plays with vigor—usually with victory. Our President is a kindly man—moved by little deeds or words of kindness—and he is sensitive to the leadership of God. He carries a burden for, and is consecrated to the work of the Kingdom. He gives himself in service for others.

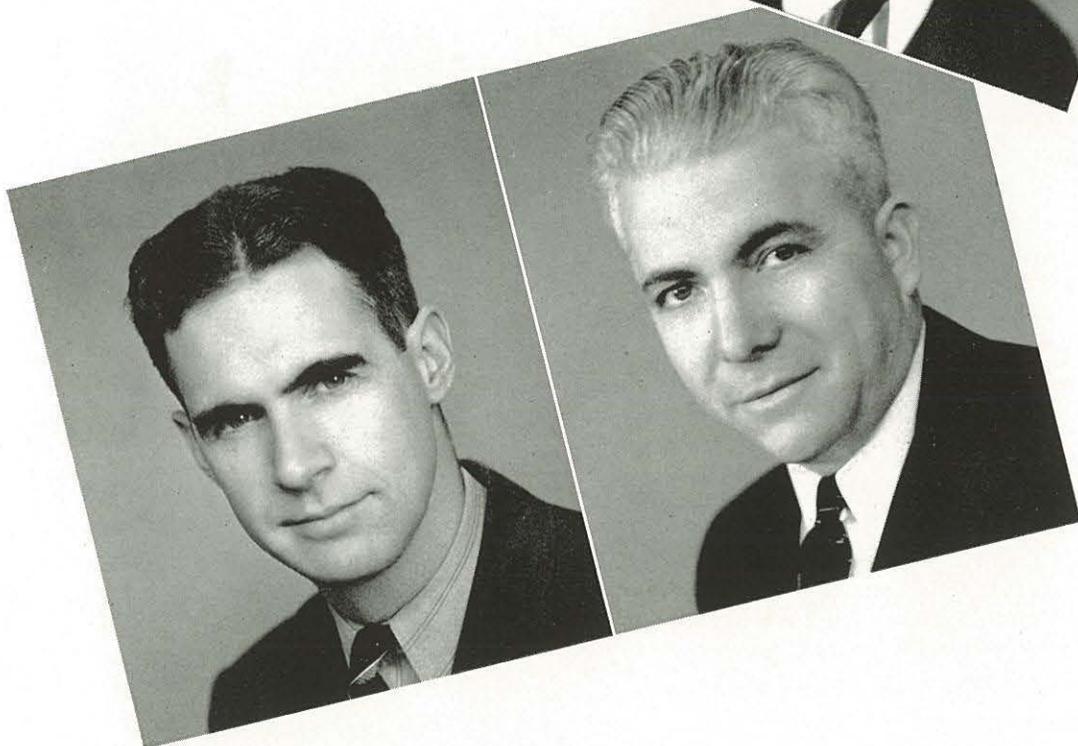

The excellence of our President in education and religion has merited for him places of honor in the Who's Who in America, Who's Who in Education, Who's Who in Philosophy, a listing in the Biographical Encyclopedia of America and the Religious Leaders of America, membership in the American Association for the Advancement of Science, appointment to the Commission on Accreditation of the Northwest Association of Secondary and Higher Schools, and election to the General Board of the Church of the Nazarene.

"Doctor Bob," full of wit and knowledge, wins all his understudies with his congeniality, competence, and unassuming manners. In student vernacular he is just "tops."

As the days and seasons finely etch our lives, so Dr. Tanner has finely etched our minds with richly colored facts of science. Her Scotch wit and integrity are a compliment to her.

Student Council

England has its Parliament; the United States has its Congress; Idaho has its Legislature; and N.N.C. has its Student Council.

The members, chosen by popular vote, are versatile students representative of various groups of students which comprise the Associated Student Body. They are not elected to their positions on the Student Council merely to fill an honorary office, but to perform the definite task of correlating and guiding the activities of organizations within the Associated Student Body.

This group is responsible for the disbursement of student body funds and for planning various student functions, which range from the formal Student-Faculty Reception to the home-spun activities of Campus Day.

In addition to its executive duties, the Student Council takes an active interest in the spiritual welfare of the students and the maintenance of the ideals and standards of N.N.C.

As the dramatic, yet at times humorous, production of another school year is brought to a conclusion and the curtains of time close this scene of reality from our vision, we are left sitting in life's hushed auditorium with only the printed program of what has happened and the vivid memories it recalls. It has been the pleasant task of the Oasis staff to arrange this program of the year's occurrences in such a way as to bring to your mind with the most pleasure the eventful days passed.

With such an aim in mind, the staff has enthusiastically focused its efforts and given to you its very best. Our editor and diplomatic, efficient business manager have been supplemented by a capable group of helpers. Alice Scofield, literary editor, has been a most valuable assistant; Earl Tunnell, staff photographer, has willingly aided as have all the other members of the staff. Prof. Vanderpool and Prof. Janosky have lent invaluable help by their guidance and support.

We wish to thank the staff members and also each member of the student body who has consciously or unconsciously helped in the production which we have endeavored to recreate. To you we present this keepsake.

Life is not measured by length of time, but by the daily web of character we unconsciously weave. The passing moments are the shuttles that relentlessly weave the under-threads of our thinking and acting into the intricate web of life. During our days at N.N.C., time has been skillfully bringing to the foreground the character we have been forming.

Alma Mater, you have imbued us with worthy thoughts, lofty motives, and a dynamic will to fulfill the high ideals for which you stand. To you we acknowledge our debt—YOU—not your buildings, walks, trees, but YOU—living, breathing personalities who through some happy process have become a part of us. We take you forth with us as we leave the environment you have created.

As we bid farewell to you, N.N.C., we may soon forget the technicalities of textbook material, but no processes in time or eternity can obliterate the imprint you have made upon us. We are your investment. All your hopes, your faith, and your aspirations are to be realized in us. May we never betray this sacred trust but may we go forth to give to the world what you, through us, seek to give, remembering that "in service to God the humblest is equal with the highest."

We Juniors feel that we have had a most eventful time. The new school year "rang in" the largest Junior Class in the history of the college. The year's program opened with Freshman Week, which was a rousing time of excitement and enthusiasm as the "Frosh" were put through initiation maneuvers. Climaxing the year's activities we entertained the Seniors at the annual junior-senior banquet. During this year, spiritual victories have been won, friendships strengthened, and new objectives realized. We shall not forget associations of chapel, classroom, party, and picnic which have bound us together as a unit.

The past three years at N.N.C. have had a valuable influence upon our lives. They have given us a greater realization of those deeper spiritual relationships which will make for fuller and richer lives in our tomorrows.

As Seniors in 1941-42, you will find us still united in the interests of the Kingdom as ideally set forth in our college motto, "Seek ye first the Kingdom of God and His righteousness."

Through many pleasant perils we have come! We are the group referred to as SOPHOMORES. As the name indicates, there truly is more to it than just being "Sophs."

At the beginning of the college year we saw the curriculum of opportunity and registered for everything, it seems. We plunged in to help make this a glorious 1940-41.

We prayed and studied and played. Probably the most heart-touching affair the Sophomores sponsored was the valentine party. President Butchart, in his high office, crowned the Senior President and "Her Majesty" as King and Queen of Hearts. And love reigned!

But while gayly and enthusiastically participating in the visible activities of college life on the campus and in the classroom, we Sophomores, individually, have been quietly and deliberately making choices and forming philosophies in the "more excellent" way—trusting thereby to be better able to fill our places in life. We have been inspired to higher heights.

From north, south, east, and west gathered a mighty host of young people who openly manifested a spirit of both timidity and expectancy. September, 1940, found Northwest Nazarene College greeting the largest class of freshmen ever enrolled. They were strange and they were a bit bashful in their new surroundings, but courage came to the front. By the close of Initiation Week the Class of 1944 had made itself known to all, but particularly to an elect group of Juniors. At dawn of the closing day of combat scores of freshmen and juniors were gathered at the foot of the flagpole and amid songs and cheers these classmen ended the week of rivalry with a spirit of good sportsmanship.

The close of 1941 finds the Freshman Class actively taking its stand in spiritual, mental, and physical leadership. It has made an admirable start but its accomplishments will only endure if these attainments are used as stepping stones to a greater future. The Class of 1944 looks ahead to unlimited spiritual, intellectual, and social possibilities. THEY WILL WIN!

Lives

A pool I chanced to pass one day
Was half grown over, stagnant, green.
I paused a moment on my way
To contemplate what I had seen.

Here was a gutter, nothing more.
It caught the once pure water; then,
Confined within its narrow shore
Made it unfit for use of men.

Not far away I saw a spring,
All clear and sparkling, fresh and cool;
Out, on, it flowed, a living thing,
So different from that stagnant pool.

Lives are like that. Some catch and hold
Each thing that comes along their way,
Life's pleasures, blessings, joys, the gold,
Which they expect to share—some day.

But others never hoard; they give;
They are the source from which there flows
Joy out to others; and they live
For folks—how many, no one knows.

Converging lines would mark the course
Of those who get. But of the man who gives
Divergent lines, himself the source;
Ah, more—for in his heart God lives.

—CLAYTON S. BROWN

Chapel

Rarely has any college assembly been endowed by such a consistently high average of excellence in speakers as has been enjoyed by the student group this year. Rev. Milo Arnold made us realize that each one is the "dictator" of his own soul. The central theme of Rev. George Taylorson's four-day ministry impressed us that God actually, eternally, and unmistakably is LOVE. This concept he proved is the only key to living without tensions. Dr. Hugh C. Benner forcefully reminded us that being made perfect is not "arriving," but is the bringing of our humanity to the place of attaining "unto perfection."

Evangelists and specialized workers have held an undisputed place in our estimation. Evangelist Clifford Lewis, world-wide traveler and lecturer, appealed chiefly to the young people with the phrase which was his motto, "True to Christ." Brothers Joe and John Wolpe were doubly attractive. "Say," said Joe in the typical Italian manner, "you know Tony da bootleg?" as he aptly gave that verse by Lon Woodrum, while John did his talking on his accordian. The only regret to the musical treat by Rev. Gretzinger was that it was not long enough. Rev. Herrell, in his lectures on stewardship, informed us that, "God owns the universe and therefore, ought to have at least a corner on our pocketbooks."

Missionaries have blessed more than one chapel service by their consecrated, fragrant spirits. Dr. Tanner, in her refreshing Scottish brogue, sketched many interesting happenings in the life of a missionary. Charming Miss Shellhammer showed the privileged side of being a missionary, with its adventures and thrills. Mrs. Mischke and Miss McDonald pictured vividly the value of the "genuine diamonds and nuggets of gold" that it is possible for the missionaries to hew out of Africa's heathen tribes. When they come to know Jesus, His transforming power in their lives qualifies them for inestimable service in His vineyard. A veteran of many battles in the foreign field in the person of Miss Della Brandenburg exhorted us to trust and obey God. These and many other speakers have made this a delightful year in Chapel.

Some of our interesting chapel guests this year have been Rev. and Mrs. Arnold, Dr. Miller, Rev. Taylorson, Miss McDonald and Mrs. Mischke, the C. of I. debaters, Rev. Herrell, Rev. Joe and John Wolpe, Rev. and Mrs. Lewis, and Dr. Benner.

IN THE STUDIO

OVER THE AIR

“Jesus calls us o’er the tumult of our life’s wild restless sea; day by day His sweet voice soundeth, saying, ‘Christian, follow me.’” With the strains of this much-loved hymn of the church, we greet you once again in Campus Devotions from Northwest Nazarene College. Whether you are speeding along the highway or are busy about your duties at home or elsewhere, won’t you join us in seeking the blessing of the Master upon our lives for another day, as we pause for fifteen minutes of Campus Devotions?

College Church

REV. AND MRS. GEORGE J. FRANKLIN
College Church Pastor and Wife

The College Church unquestionably has won a permanent place in the institutional structure of the College. In having united all the available spiritual energies around a central, magnetic pole of religious intensity, the Church has become to its members the living symbol of the College motto. To this center the students are drawn to worship and experience some of those high moments of communion and inspiration which are so vitalizing to the persons who have met Jesus Christ. Here personality is harmonized with the eternal Spirit and enriched as otherwise it could not be in the classroom or on the campus.

Constrained by the great divine commission, we are sent from this hallowed place better fitted "to serve the present age, our calling to fulfill."

Reverend George J. Franklin, who has been our College Pastor for the past three years, has recently been honored with an additional three-year call. His victorious spirit and genial smile have won for him a place in the hearts of the college students.

All departments of the Church have had a marked growth this year. Through the efforts of the leaders, many students have found a place of active service. A spirit of real harmony and co-operation prevailed and God has richly blessed us with His hallowed presence.

Revivals

Integration of personality, the goal of a society, reaches its nearest approach in the Christ-centered life. Within a college program which demands high scholastic standards and offers an intensive literary, athletic, and social program, N. N. C. has united all these about the master ideal of seeking first the Kingdom of God. In such a program, the old-fashioned revival plays a vital part for it is there that the call of Christ becomes more real and compelling and the urgency of decisions for Him becomes more immediate.

Our two special revivals this year, led by Dr. R. T. Williams and Rev. Hardy C. Powers, were not ordinary meetings. They were brief but intensive periods in which stirring messages brought correspondingly thorough results.

A right conception of God and a right relationship to Him key-noted the messages of Dr. Williams. He preached no elaborate theology, but the appeal of the gospel was never more earnestly presented. The response of old and new students alike was immediate and purposive.

REV. HARDY C. POWERS

DR. R. T. WILLIAMS

The climactic scene of the year came in the closing service of the spring meeting. More than fifty persons found victory at the altar that night, and hundreds remained to hear their testimonies of new-found joy. The meeting marked the close of an outstanding week of services in which many young people made covenants with God. The testimonies of over two hundred at the following midweek prayer service were evidences of the fact that the results had been far reaching and thorough. The student body came nearer to the goal of one hundred per cent for Christ than it has ever come since the earlier years of school.

Stimulation without expression is withering; expression without direction is hazardous; but expression within proper bounds leads to wholesome development. Nowhere is this truer than in the field of religious activity. To meet the need of providing an avenue for the expression of Christian zeal is the main subjective function of the Christian Workers' Band.

Besides being a character builder, this outlet for spiritual energy has become a training ground. On each Sunday of the past year, an average of thirty-five students have been preaching, singing, or teaching classes in some outpoints and churches in the community. The membership is now over two hundred. During the year, each student has many chances to participate in active service. Besides the nine regular outpoints, there have been many calls from churches of other denominations for Christian workers.

The function of the Band, like that of the Church, is to enlist men and women, boys and girls in the Kingdom. It is no simple task to evaluate the results of such collective effort, but the Christian testimonies from scores of happy persons bear overwhelming evidence to the profitableness of such endeavor. It is under the effective superintendency of our president, Nona Stagner, that all phases of the Band's activity have taken such a progressive trend. This is the workshop where theory is put into practice and zeal is transformed into glorious accomplishment.

Seeking to Serve

It is the Sabbath! The church bells are ringing out their first, welcoming notes of the morning. A car pulls up at Hadley Hall and a male quartet climbs into it. Over at Morrison Hall a girl's trio is leaving with a pastor for his outpost. In another car some art equipment and perhaps some musical instruments are loaded in, as the occupants joyfully set forth to give the gospel elsewhere.

Such is the scene one might see each Sunday morning or evening as the students gladly go to give their talents and service to the many outposts of the college work and churches of other denominations.

The work at Red Top has been carried on this year by Arthur Wright with Crawford Vanderpool as his assistant. Tom McKee has very successfully pastored the work at Ten Mile Heights. Mr. and Mrs. Twist are directing our new work at Liberty. Lester Johnston and Lowell Ellis teamed together to start the outpost at Pleasant View. Paul Mangum has been in charge of the work at Valley View, where he has been co-laborer with groups from other churches. In addition to these regular preaching points, Burton Stewart and Gottfred Pearson have faithfully supplied workers for the three Old People's Homes of Nampa each Sunday afternoon. Regular workers have been sent each Sunday to the Congregational Church of Upper Fairview and to the Boise Mission. Hugh McDowell has been doing a good work at the State Institution and Colony.

Our aim has been to use as many students as possible. Our theme has been "Christ and Him Crucified." Our inspiration has been the Holy Spirit. God has blessed our efforts and has opened up great possibilities to us.

Each Sunday several students go to these various outposts.

SCHOOL

PROPHETS

Consecration to the service of God glows with a romance that stimulates a zeal and a vision so essential for the Christian worker. Those who are preparing for the active field of Christian endeavor now number more than eighty.

The called preachers and missionaries find mutual help and inspiration for the tasks of tomorrow in the activities of the School of the Prophets and the Foreign Missionary Band. Room twenty-seven has become the center of spiritual inspiration for the joint weekly meetings of these organizations. The meetings are designed primarily as a means of spiritual enlightenment and inspiration to those whose future will bring them face to face with the problems of the active ministry, both in the home land and on the mission field. God has especially bestowed His richest blessings upon these services.

Normal Department and Grammar School

Our youngest N.N.C.-ites.

Over in the little gray schoolhouse, the student teachers and the local youngsters meet and receive mutual benefit. Professor Coral O. Young is the capable director, who, with her practical, every-day principles, prepares both teachers and pupils for greater future responsibilities. Daily lessons may be forgotten, but the principles remain.

Worthy of praise are the three regular teachers—Miss Dorothy Petersen, primary grades; Mrs. Bartram, upper grades; and Miss Eleanor Lenton, music—who are faithfully attending to the tasks of motivating and guiding the lives of the younger ones and setting standards of good techniques in the science of modern education. During the school year, the children give several programs. This year they gave a Christmas program in the college chapel. The lower grades gave a playlet, "Bells," and the upper grades presented the well-known Christmas drama, "Why the Chimes Rang." The children showed an unusual amount of ability and excellent training.

"Train up a child in the way he should go, and when he is old, he will not depart from it." With this simple proverb as a basic foundation, a corps of teachers, students, and student-teachers are working together day by day to fill more efficiently this wider field of service which is open to the public school instructor.

Future Teachers of America

N.N.C. maintains the distinction of having had the first organization in Idaho of Future Teachers of America. This chapter was named in honor of the late Dr. E. E. Angell, who was considered an ideal teacher.

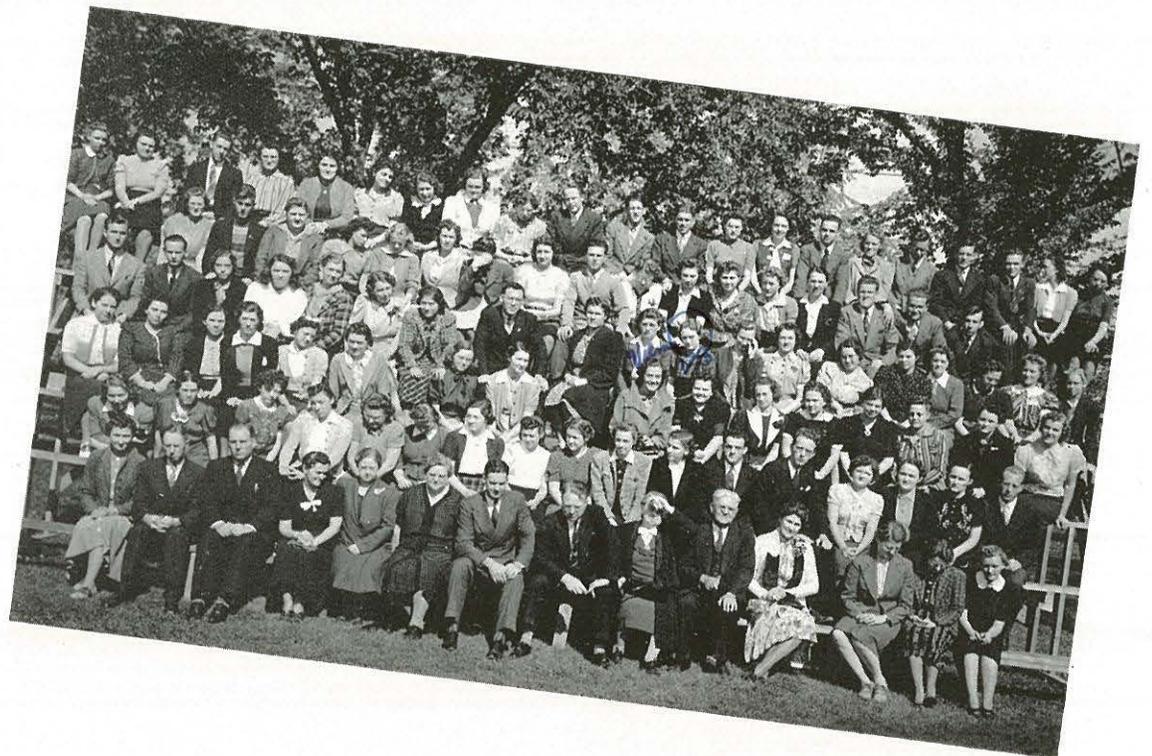

Membership in this organization brings to the student the motivating power of a lifelong purpose and a nation-wide outlook. It is designed to develop ideals and powers in our lives, to advance the interest and welfare of the profession and of children, and to foster the education of all the people.

The F.T.A. chapter fills the local relationship of the teacher in his three-fold citizenship in local, state, and national organizations.

In return for one dollar national dues, the chapter and individual members receive the following generous services: An attractive charter for framing with a gold seal each year, a library of materials with additions each year, special services in planning programs and projects, and the right to call upon officers of the N.E.A. to meet with the chapter.

Each member receives nine issues of the N.E.A. Journal, ten selected Personal Growth Leaflets, the right to wear an F.T.A. pin, and a national certificate of merit when 200 merit points are earned. For one dollar state membership dues he receives other beneficial services.

The College Chapter of the F. T. A. is not a blind-alley organization. Every member, on joining, establishes a professional citizenship with vital influence upon his teaching success. So, every future teacher in N.N.C., let us push and boost for a working organization for the benefit of our profession!

Zeta Kappa Rho

Northwest Nazarene College sets forth a goal that is worthy of attaining when it presents standards of scholarship which one must strive earnestly to reach. For the favored few who possess determination and ability to reach these scholastic goals the Zeta Kappa Rho honor society has been formed. Membership in this society is determined by the grade point average for the year. Those who reach and maintain a grade point average of 2.25 or above for two consecutive semesters are considered yearly members of the organization.

The ideals of this group of intelligentsia are embodied in the three-fold significance of the name Zeta Kappa Rho, namely, zeal, knowledge, and religion.

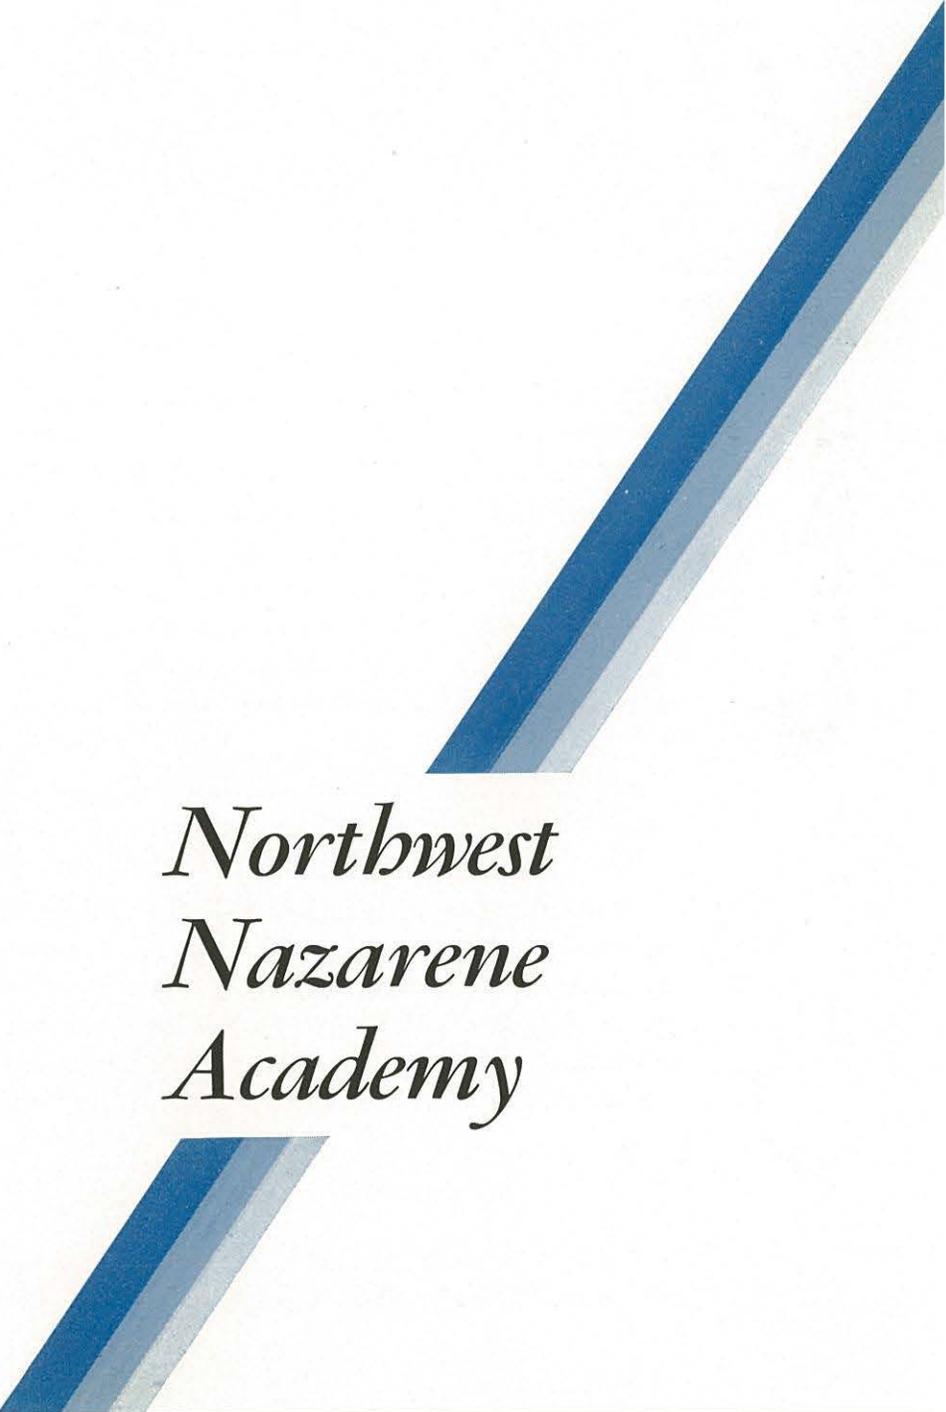

To be regarded as a member of the Zeta Kappa Rho is a high honor and a strong incentive for mental activity. Who would not apply all his powers of reason and habits of methodical organization and skill to become a member of this elite group? When this demand for intellectual ability is efficiently coped with and the student has maintained for four years an average of 2.00 and is graduated cum laude, he then becomes a permanent member of the society.

Definite steps have been taken this year toward the formation of a national honor society for the colleges of our denomination. Minor details and regulations remain unsettled at this date, but will be clarified in the future. We are confident that this national society, to be known as the Phi Delta Lambda, will embody all the principles which we as a college have set for our intellectual goal.

Why Northwest Nazarene Academy?

Why? Because it has unique privileges and opportunities to offer. The steadfast Christian lives of our instructors help to make and to encourage a higher standard of Christian living among the students. To be able to associate with such a group of young people with high morals and Christian integrity is a rare opportunity enjoyed by only a few. These features alone make our Academy stand out in bold relief against the multitude of high schools that dot this country.

In the Academy, one is not submerged in a vast sea of struggling students and left to survive or sink according to one's luck or ability. Its small classes allow sympathetic teachers to become acquainted with each student personally and to guide and direct each one.

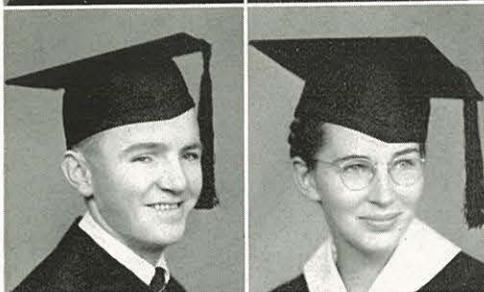

Because of its connection with the College we are able to listen to talented artists, potential preachers, and informative speakers. The college students themselves are a blessing; for in this group of nearly five hundred young people, a large majority are living consistent Christian lives. To be a member of a student body nearly one hundred per cent for Christ and to be a student of such a school as the Academy is a rare privilege.

Academy Basketball

"All Academy fellows interested in basketball come out for practice tonight." One announcement was all that was needed, for nearly every boy in the academy came out. Such enthusiasm and eagerness to play the game could hardly be equalled any place. With the able leadership of Captain "Turk" Kincaid and the outstanding ability of the star player, "Ernie" Siefarth, the team went forth to conquer in the eleven games they played during the season. Although they couldn't report eleven "wins," they could report eleven "victories" for, as one player expressed it after a game, "Well, at least we won another moral victory."

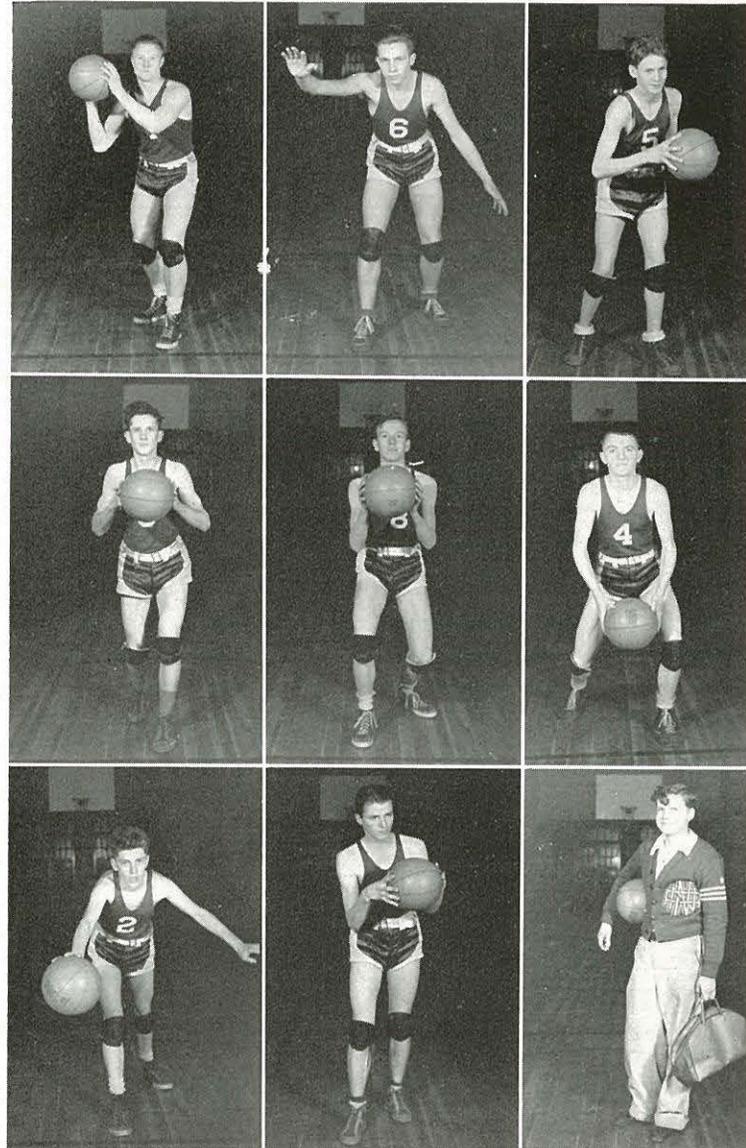

Coach Mosteller found that he had a group of fellows who, winning or losing, would "stay right in the fight to the end." In the final and most thrilling game of the season when our fellows beat Greenleaf Academy by one point in the closing seconds of play, two seniors of the team, Siefarth and Kincaid, played their last game for N.N.A.

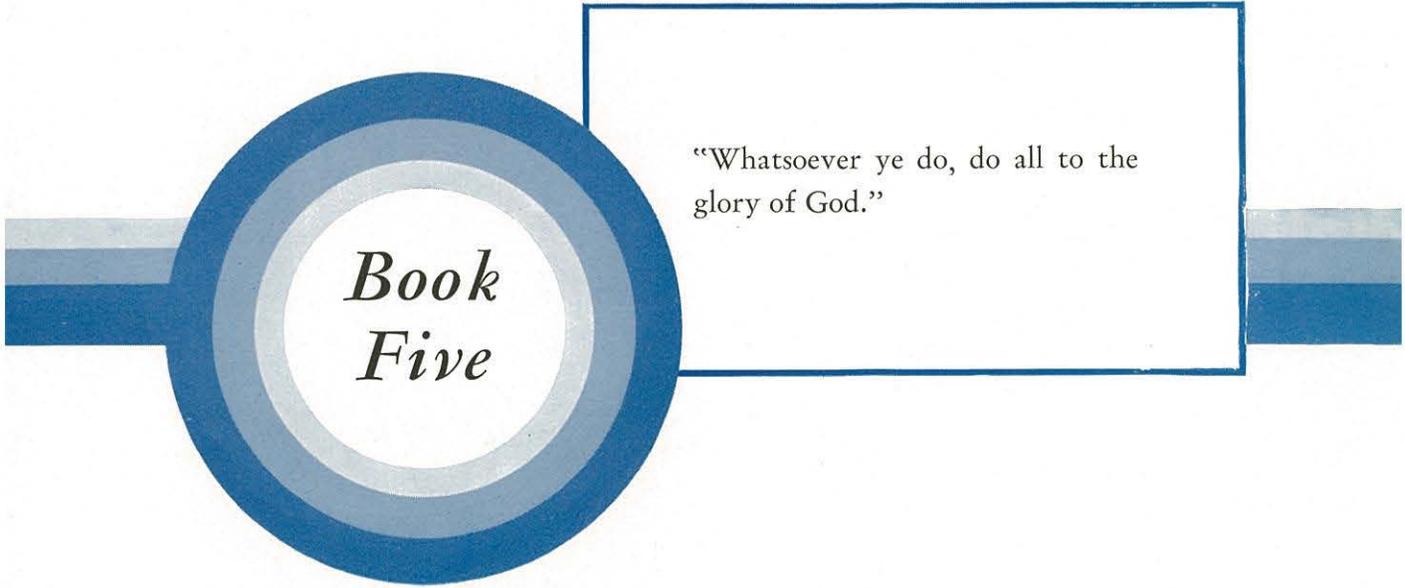

Much credit for the success of this athletic department goes to Earl Mosteller, who with his untiring efforts and cheerful encouragement coached the boys in the fundamentals of basketball and the essence of true sportsmanship.

The Messiah

An outstanding cast of soloists, an orchestra, and chorus members presented Handel's "Messiah" in Central Auditorium on December fifteenth. This famous oratorio was given by the Philharmonic Choral Society of the college.

Our own Elizabeth Nelson, who received much commendation, was the soprano soloist. Other soloists were Mrs. Fred Rosene, contralto; Henry Phillips, tenor; and Clarence T. Ward, bass; all of Boise.

Prof. Doris Gale DeLong ably directed this large choir of approximately one hundred and fifty voices. Albert Tompkins directed the string orchestra. Ella Leona Gale presided at the organ and Eleanor R. Lenton played the piano. Frank Lowman, trumpeter, played "The Holy City" for offertory and accompanied Mr. Ward in his outstanding solo "The Trumpet Shall Sound."

We were more than just thrilled as the wonderful story of the Messiah was given forth in song. After the prophecy of the coming Redeemer, we heard the exalted announcement, "For Unto Us a Child is Born." Our hearts were then stirred as we heard of the atonement made by our Savior and of His glorious resurrection. Climaxing the whole theme was the promise of Christ's eternal reign in the great "Hallelujah Chorus." The audience of about two thousand people arose in honor to the King of Kings and Lord of Lords.

The entire program was broadcast over KFXD and rendered again on December seventeenth in the First Methodist Church at Boise at the request of the Boise Ministerial Association.

A Cappella Choirs

DIVISION

A Cappella Choir music has been an important feature of the music department this year. The institution of a junior varsity choir has been welcomed by those who wish to train for membership in the varsity choir in future years. Vacancies in the latter organization are filled by members from the junior varsity group.

Mrs. DeLong labored faithfully in training these vocalists through the year, so that the varsity choir was able to well represent Northwest Nazarene College in its extensive tour of the northwestern states. Traveling in a caravan of cars, the choir covered twenty-five hundred miles to fill singing engagements in twenty-five cities in Oregon, Washington, and Idaho. Reports from all points on the route of the choir have confirmed the statement of one member of the Board of Regents, who said, "The A Cappella Choir has done a great work for Northwest Nazarene College."

Orchestra and Band

COLLEGE
ORCHESTRA

Any organization that is as able to speak for itself, as is the College Band, really needs no more introduction than would our winning basketball team, for which the Band enthusiastically performed at nearly every game on the home floor.

Along with this objective of making the Band one of the chief sources of school spirit, Weldon Franklin, our student director, has striven unceasingly to stimulate in the members a genuine appreciation for the finer type of concert pieces made available to the average musician in band arrangements, such as Tschaiikowsky's "March Slave" and "Huldigungs March" by Greig, two of the numbers which the band ably interpreted to its responsive audience at the annual spring concert.

GIRLS'
GLEE CLUB

"MUSIC MAKETH GLAD THE HEART"

"Just another musical organization!" No, that's far from being the correct attitude which is taken by the members of the men's and women's glee clubs concerning these organizations. Any boy or girl who meets the necessary requirements may become a member of these organizations.

During the first semester much of the time is devoted to learning Thanksgiving and Christmas numbers which are sung during those seasons. Throughout the second semester the girls devote their time to learning more lyric, light, and rhythmical numbers such as "De Coppah Moon," "The Birdland Symphony," and "Lullaby"; while the boys learn to sing a more bounding type of songs such as "Waterboy." These numbers along with others are rendered at the various fine arts programs.

Yes, all girls and boys who are members of these organizations along with their instructors, Mrs. DeLong and Miss Nelson, have found that "Music maketh glad the heart!"

Hands of Mastery

“Let the beauty of the Lord be upon us; and establish thou the work of our hands.”—Psalms 90:17.

The force of true beauty is still upon us as we review two nights when on January 27, the genius of Roland Hayes, supported by Reginald Boardman at the piano, and on March 28, the Roth String Quartet rekindled the divine fire of real music and sent it forth singing into our listening souls.

There stands that well-seasoned instrument of God’s hand—the lowly Hayes with his soul feeling for heaven’s harmonies. Together artist and audience mourn human limitations and failings; together we hopefully reach for refuge and strength; then, together a tranquil faith for all-sufficiency grips us as we “Steal Away to Jesus.”

The flexible strength and deft fingers of the Roth String Quartet awakened a glad response to their entire program from the sparkling classicism of happy Hadyn to the misty impressionisms of Debussy. Again a refining zeal stirred our emotions and saturated our wills with an invigorating energy which hails the adventure of living with satiety just as these masters lived music.

Forensics

The official announcement of the Pi Kappa Delta question for the year, "Resolved, that the nations of the western hemisphere should form a permanent union," gave the debaters a free hand in their preparation for the opening tournament held at Boise Junior College. Seven N.N.C. teams carried our colors into the fray and won over fifty per cent as a squad average with one upper and one lower division team reaching the finals.

The final debate to settle the championship of the upper division was held in the auditorium at Nampa before the entire faculty and student body. John Sutherland and Hughlon McDowell, affirmative, bowed to Morgan Beck and Bill Lewis, last year's co-champions from the College of Idaho, who upheld the negative side of the question.

February 15, our traveling squad, Janice Markel, Leota Burns, Sutherland, and McDowell, accompanied by Professor M. A. Wilson, left on a brief but comprehensive tour during which they met Washington State College, University of Idaho, Lewiston Normal, Whitman College, and Whitworth College on their way to the Linfield College meet at McMinnville, Oregon. The women's team, Janice Markel and Leota Burns, won second place for Northwest Nazarene College among the colleges of the Northwest, while the men reached the finals winning six out of ten debates in which they participated.

So ends another chapter in our debate annals. Successful in competition, yes, but more important, successful in representing the ideals of our institution.

"The Spencerians"

"... so he has his life." These words conclude the summary of the life of one of the finest young people who have graced the halls of Northwest Nazarene College. Born to be a leader, Paul Spencer incorporated his brilliance, eloquence, and personality in efforts of forensic nature. Despite illness he, with his partner, won the last debate N.N.C. has ever had with Stanford University. Immediately Paul returned to bed and in a short time he slipped away to the Great Leader.

Under the inspiration of his life the speech society was reorganized this year, taking the name "The Spencerians." To lead the society to forensic achievement, Clarence Killion was elected president.

Through the Spencerian Club, N.N.C. was represented in impromptu and extemporaneous speaking at the southern Idaho speech conference. At the spring conference, held at Rexburg, N.N.C. was represented in the humorous and dramatic reading departments, and in poetry reading. Byron Lee brought to N.N.C. the trophy from the dramatic department of the conference.

A new type of literary opportunity was presented to the college through the purchase by the Spencerian Club of a public address system this year.

The A.D.P. Society began this year with an upward swing again. Society successes are not measured in points and trophies alone, but also in enthusiasm, co-operation, and spirit. With an abundance of these qualities in our group, we have renewed confidence in our future outlook.

We demonstrated high group talent in our feature programs. The "Ballad for Americans" was one of the most popular musical numbers presented in inter-society competition. All who saw the spring contest program were thrilled anew with the old recital of Moses' faithful obedience in leading the children of Israel forth from bondage.

We have maintained a high average of wins in the athletic field. The A.D.P. boys and girls know how it is done. In a year of unusually keen competition, we have shown good sportsmanship and have determined to fight on!

Athletic-Literary competition may mean a contest to be won, but to the three-year-old Lambda Sigma Pi Society, it means primarily an opportunity to practice good sportsmanship and co-operation, not only among its own members but also with the other societies of the school. We have worked to win. We will continue to strive toward victory for as we climb each step in our ladder of success, we build before us another upon which to rise.

In keeping with past achievements of the society, the first semester contest program, "The Winds Came," was awarded first place. During the latter half of the year, the commencement program was given.

Someone has said that the honors of victory go not only to the victor but to him who has done his best. In the light of this statement, the Lambda Sigma Pi society will always be honored for WE WILL DO OUR BEST.

On, Olympians! On, Olympians!
Wave the red and white,
Never falter, never fear,
We're always in the fight,
Rah! Rah! Rah!
Play a clean game; play a fair game;
Never end in shame.
Fight Olys—fight! fight! fight!
For that's our aim.

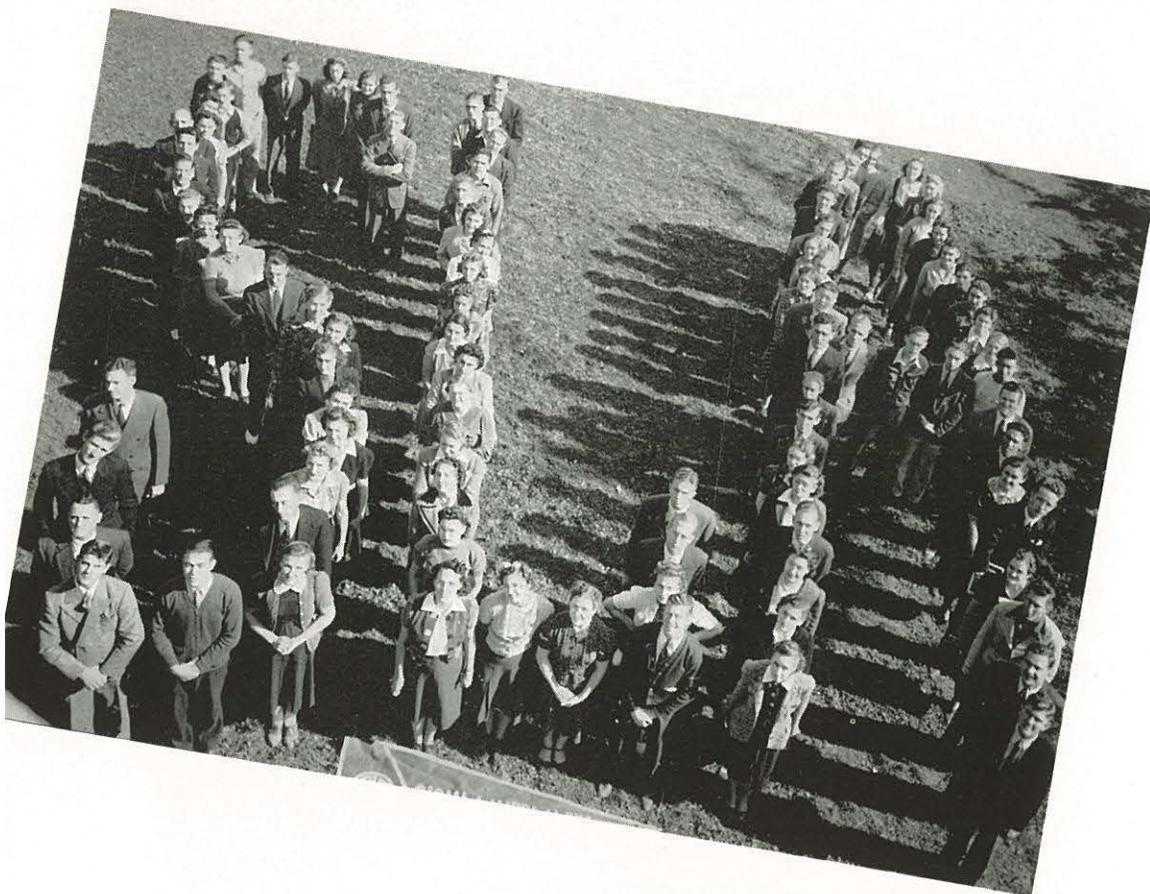

This was our song as we journeyed through the year 1940-41. We found many interesting things on the way. At various places we stopped while a number of our group participated in several types of ball games. Although we were not as successful as we might have been, we enjoyed the competition and spirit of fair play.

The most outstanding and interesting events of our journey were the two contest programs. The first one entitled "What Shall It Profit a Man" portrayed so vividly the evils of drink that we felt as we went on our journey that we must warn the young people whom we should meet.

Shortly before Easter we stopped for our second program, "One Thing Thou Lackest," a possible sequel to the story of the rich young ruler. Thrilling is the sight of the spiritual resurrection of a human soul.

We are taking no detours, but are pressing on toward the goal—development of Christian character and abilities, and, incidentally, the "cup."

All good things
Are ours, nor soul helps flesh more,
now, than flesh helps soul.

ROBERT BROWNING.

After a short period of seeming defeat the Sigma Lambda Alpha Society through consistent effort won the coveted prize for the first semester. We took first place in athletics and music. The contest program, inspirational saga of the early church, "Torches of Faith," was well received. The first semester's success gave zest to our endeavors of the second semester.

Our second semester contest program entitled "Gems From the Masters" depicted the best in literature and music from the 18th, 19th, and 20th centuries, spiced with some of the interesting sidelights from the history of these periods.

It is with a feeling of satisfaction that we look back upon this past school year for we feel we have run the race well. We face the future with its challenging opportunities.

"Where do I go to register?" "How can I adjust myself to college life?" "How can I meet new friends?" —These are just a few of the many puzzling questions of a newcomer to college. Since getting adjusted to a new environment is a real problem, we have a Big Sister Club at N.N.C. to help new girls solve this problem. Each new girl is given a "Big Sister," a girl who has gone to N.N.C. before, who helps her to become acquainted and to enjoy college life.

"My, what a grand time I had. I feel as if I knew everybody now." This was one of the comments given by a "little sister" after the mixer party in the gymnasium at the very beginning of the year. This party was sponsored by the Big Sister Club to give everyone a chance to get acquainted and have a good time. The next event was an informal tea for the little sisters. Since we also had "open house" in our new Morrison Hall, many friends and visitors enjoyed the tea with us. So show their appreciation, the little sisters gave a Christmas party for the big sisters.

Heart Sister Week was a special time of enjoyment as well as blessing. Each girl had a secret heart sister for whom she did thoughtful and kind things. Everyone had fun during the week preceding Valentine's Day trying to guess who her heart sister was, but the identity was not revealed until Valentine Day. This happy week culminated in a Valentine luncheon in Boise where the girls not only enjoyed the luncheon together but also the special feature of a twenty-five-mile scenic trip around the city.

The final big event of the year was a Formal Commencement Tea to which mothers and friends as well as graduates of surrounding high schools who might be interested in attending N.N.C. were invited. Monthly meetings were also held, at which time various interesting topics were discussed.

The Big Sister Club strives to help the young women of N.N.C. to be more thoughtful of others, more friendly, more cheerful, and above all to be more like their Supreme Ideal, Christ.

Continuing the good work of last year, the Men's Club has again served in many capacities of public service. This organization of all the male students at N.N.C. has appeared as everything from Kris Kingle to a party host.

At the beginning of the year new students were treated to a get-together party co-sponsored by the Men's Club and the Big Sisters. Washington met Minnesota at this friendship jamboree, while Idaho shook hands with South Dakota.

In proper observance of the Yuletide season, the Men's Club brought Santa Claus with his large supply of candy and nuts to visit a group of children whom he had a hard time to find last year. Pre-season arrangements made it certain that Jocko, the wonder horse, would also be on hand to display his talent while the kiddies waited for St. Nick.

Morrison Hall was not neglected, for the Men's Club co-operated in furnishing a room in that building. Each member gave liberally to this fine addition to our campus.

There is much that the Men's Club can do in later years. The field has not been entirely exploited. We look forward with anticipation to new activity from this young organization in the future.

International Relations Club

Living is indeed a challenge! Today—when the traditional governments and economic theories of the world are being overthrown, when we are surrounded by threats of war on every side, when everything has lost its stability and things we have considered most secure are shifting—an occasional cursory glance over a newspaper is not enough to enable us to face the problems before our generation. We must have a thorough understanding of each side of these questions, and we must also be able to evaluate the merits of proposed solutions. The International Relations Club has been organized to meet this need of our students. Twice each month we meet to discuss world problems, international relations, and national events. From these discussions we try to gain a well-rounded view and a clear perspective of world conditions.

Not only do the members of the club, itself, benefit from this organization, but this year we have sponsored chapel programs before the entire student body in which outstanding speakers have clearly presented the world situation and possible answers to its problems. In addition, we have been able to add several valuable books to the school library by the aid of the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace.

Campus Day

Does this help you recall all the hard work you did one day in 1941?

Technocracy has its virtues when good ole' manual labor holds sway on Campus Day.

The potential Reverends, businessmen of tomorrow, would-be-governors, and future school teachers along with a few well-matured educators gather that day to fulfill an ancient Bible adage, "Earn thy living by the sweat of thy brow," or perhaps more fitting, "Beautify thy campus by the perspiration of thy frau" (the ladies work harder than the men). We see, contrary to child labor legislation, English teachers substituting as window washers, class leaders pushing wheel barrows, big sisters laying brick, and our president wearing overalls. However, the results are gratifying.

It has become an erstwhile tradition on this memorable day for faculty members to become defeated baseball players.

After such dissipating and strenuous activities, we recuperate on roasted weiners and burned marshmallows—and like them, too!

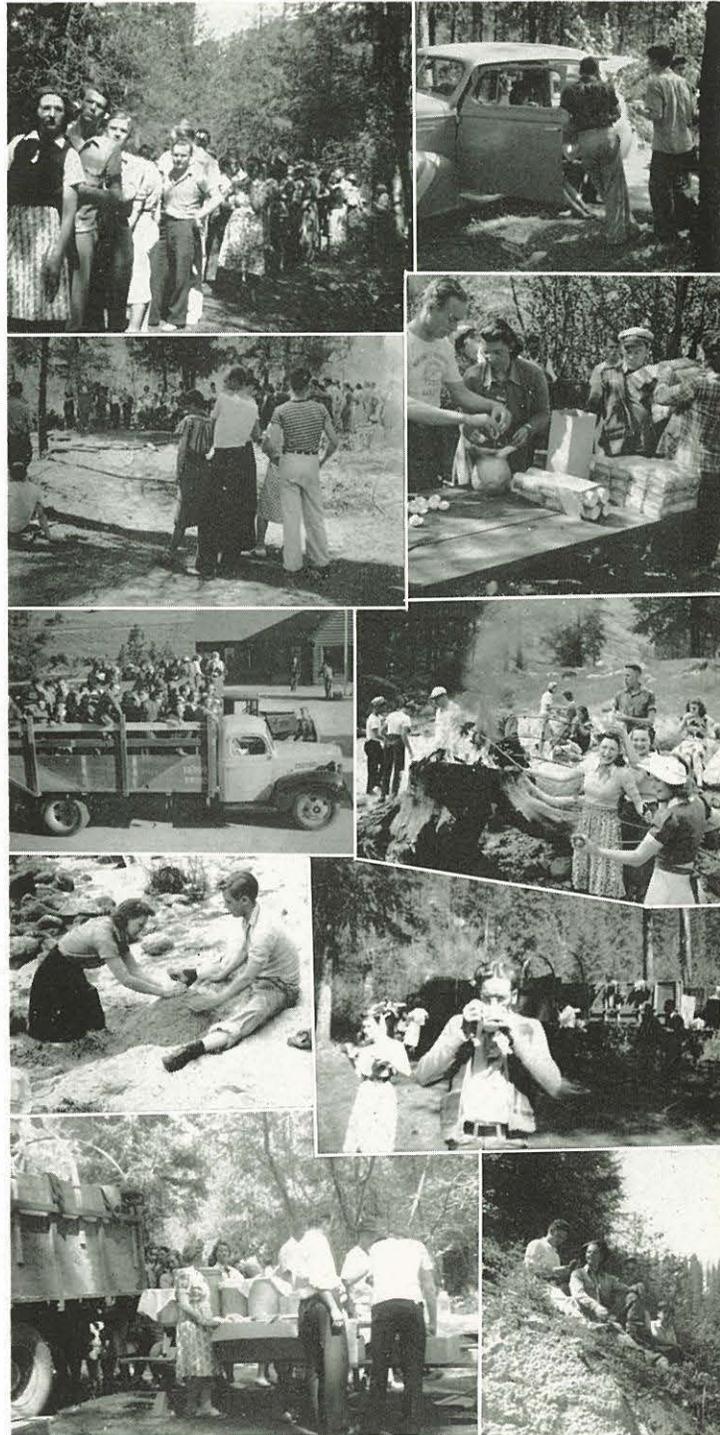

Climaxing the day, a program is presented in the gymnasium where judges award prizes to the best window washers and the best entertainers of the evening.

All this, and more too, on Campus Day—if it doesn't rain.

Picnic Day

The Day's Activities in Pictures.

N.N.C. picnic day is a day which every student looks forward to with great anticipation, for it is on this day that we can find rousing recreation in the arms of good old Mother Nature. What matters if we do have to ride crowded in trucks for about 60 miles and shiver painfully and heroically in the fresh brisk morning air for two or three hours, if we are greeted by a sumptuous breakfast of oranges followed with ham and eggs fried on an open hearth among the towering pines near the summit of a typical Idaho mountain? Climbing mountains, following mountain streams, and having short toboggan rides—wherever a little snow is left—help to create a genuine, noon-day appetite. Once more we board the sight-seeing trucks in the afternoon to see sights such as Arrow Rock Dam, abandoned gold mines, and depopulated cities. These side trips add greatly to the interest of the day. Of course the day's activities are always climaxed with a juicy weiner roast seasoned with marshmallows toasted on the end of a willow stick in an old-fashioned, sagebrush bonfire. No wonder we never forget good old N.N.C. picnic days.

1940 SEPTEMBER 1940

Sat. 21—College mixer. Students from all localities and phases of life met in the gymnasium tonight to make new acquaintances and renew the old.

Mon. 23, 24—Registration. Take courage! Faint heart ne'er finished registration.

Fri. 27—Long cherished dreams were realized with the dedication of Morrison Hall.

Fri. 27-29—Opening Convention. The various speakers gave us a keen insight to the opportunities in the great field of Christian endeavor.

1940 OCTOBER 1940

Fri. 4—Student-Faculty Reception. A quiet elegance mixed with a spirit of gaiety dominated the formal occasion held in the elaborate parlor and dining room of Morrison Hall.

Wed. 9—Oasis picture day—"If it doesn't rain." The Juniors proved their superiority this afternoon in the annual tug-o'-war by pulling the Freshmen through a drenching stream from a fire hose.

Thurs. 10—Early morning guards kidnaped, unwary Juniors imprisoned in the root cellar, Freshmen mobbed, and their President left stranded in the country—but the Freshmen succeeded in pulling down the traditional Junior flag.

Fri. 11—Juniors took Freshmen through the paces in the gymnasium while the Seniors entertained Sophomores at a cleverly planned auto party.

Fri. 25—Ghosts and goblins calmly strolled among stalks of corn and autumn leaves at a hilarious masquerade in the gymnasium.

1940 NOVEMBER 1940

Fri. 1—The "cream" of each society entertained us in both music and literary arts at a special feature program.

Fri. 15—A stirring patriotic program, "We the People," was given by the Alpha Delta Phi Literary Society.

Thurs. 21—Mr. Gobbler with all the trimmings was a very special item today, Thanksgiving—or is it Franks-giving?

Sun. 24-Dec 3—The portals of opportunity were opened wide to those hearing the powerful sermons of Dr. Williams who appealed to our sense of discretion and good judgment.

1940 DECEMBER 1940

Fri. 6—Portrayal of a period in the early Christian church through "Torches of Faith," was presented by the Sigma Lambda Alpha Society.

Thurs. 12—Come, children, each one "speak your piece." Thus did we turn back the years as our Baby Sisters entertained their Big Sisters with a fascinating program at a Christmas party in Morrison Hall.

Sun. 15—The Philharmonic Choral Society presented its fourth annual rendition of Handel's famous oratorio, "The Messiah," before nearly two thousand people who gathered at Central Auditorium.

Fri. 20—Good-byes are somehow not so sad when it means the beginning of a seventeen-day vacation!

1941 JANUARY 1941

Fri. 10—Lambda Sigma Pi Literary Society ably presented "And the Winds Came," a program centered around the parabolic house on the sand.

Tues. 21—Semester Exams. Take heed, ye children of insufficiency, ye dwellers of the darkness. "'Tis better to have crammed and passed, than never to have crammed at all." Oliver Cramwell.

Mon. 27—Temperance was stressed in "Youth Crusades for Christ" given by the Olympian Society.

Tues. 28-Feb. 2—Joint convention with First Church. N. B. Herrell was the practical and forceful speaker.

Fri. 31—Roland Hayes, world-famous negro tenor, again thrilled our hearts by the purity of tone and rich quality of his voice. All felt the touch of true emotion as Mr. Hayes climaxed his concert with "The Crucifixion."

Intramural Softball

Softball has the honor of always inaugurating the intramural athletic program of the year. Kurtz Park, just across from the campus, is the scene of many a hard fought battle on the diamond.

The S.L.A. boys should have won the softball championship, according to the arm-chair dopsters. The A.D.P. team, however, forged ahead to become bat kings without losing a single fray; the S.L.A.'s took second. The L.S.P.'s won third place, while the Olympians cinched fourth place with a superfluity of defeats.

Girls' softball ended with somewhat different results from those of the boys! The fair sex of the S.L.A. society succeeded in winning first place honors. The A.D.P. batsters came in for second place. The Olympian ladies' team outdid their male comrades by taking third. The L.S.P.'s satisfied themselves with fourth.

Intramural Touchball

"In the spring a young man's fancy lightly turns to thoughts . . ."—but in the fall his fancy turns to football, that sport confined to the masculine members of the race, except inasmuch as the fairer sex may participate heartily in the applause and enthusiasm associated with the game.

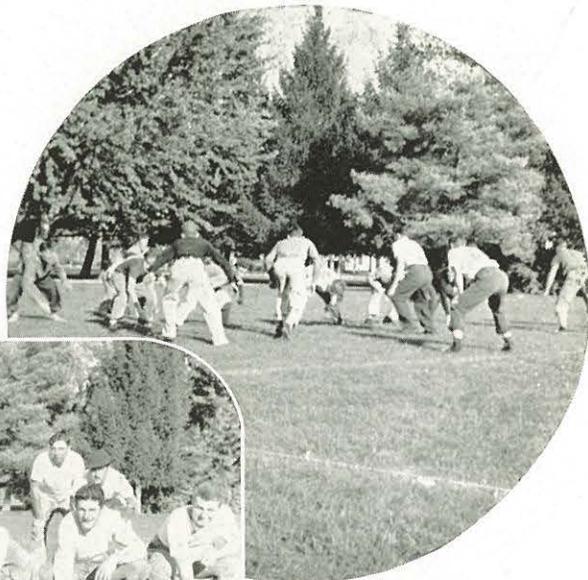

Football made its debut at Northwest Nazarene College last fall when touch football was added to the schedule of intersociety sports. But, new as it was to N.N.C., football was greeted as an old friend and attached to itself many enthusiastic supporters.

On the turf, in a beautiful setting of trees and admirers, the teams went forth to battle; and, amid the shouts and cheers of their "grandstand," the teams fought for victory.

The Alpha Delta Phi boys had what it took, it seems, and came through the season with nary a score against them. Hats off and a round of applause for the boys of the gold and purple!

The Sigma Lambda Alpha placed second, followed by the Lambda Sigma Pi. And, alas, in the dark abyss of fourth place lay the Olympians.

With the return of autumn, bonfires, and crunching leaves will come football to the campus—and once more we will take our seats on the side lines and eat our peanuts and root for our teams!

Intramural Volleyball

Volleyball, in spite of the fact that it is only a minor sport at N.N.C., was momentous enough to decide the first semester winner of the faculty loving cup.

The Sigma Lambda Alpha bounded off with first place in the contest of girls' and boys' games, whereas, their closest cup rival, the Lambda Sigma Pi, cornered fourth in both girls' and boys' games. The grand total points were so close that even an L.S.P. third place in either boys' or girls' volleyball would have placed them in the position of first-semester-cup winner for their third consecutive semester, and thus they would have the permanent possession of the cup.

The Alpha Delta Phi and the Olympian Societies took a second and third place—the A.D.P., third in boys' and second in girls'; the Olympian, second in boys' and third in girls'.

But that which really counts most of all in any sport is the end which it serves, and that end should be character building. In volleyball we find co-operation and good sportsmanship.

Intramural Basketball

Keen competition in both boys' and girls' games featured the intramural basketball schedule this year. After the first semester, varsity players were barred from intramural games, but the high caliber of the contests proved conclusively that not all the superior playing talent was on the varsity team. Interest ran high in the girls' games as well as the boys' contests.

The Alpha Delta Phi emerged with top honors in the girls' section, with the Olympians gaining supremacy in the boys' league. All four societies entered high class teams in the struggle this year, providing the players with some stiff opposition and their supporters with fast-breaking games that compared favorably with varsity battles.

As we look back to the games of this year and to the achievements of our players, we also look forward to another year of activity under and through the hoop!

S.L.A. Teams

The Crusaders

Playing a brand of basketball that kept N.N.C. rooters on the edge of their seats throughout every game, the Crusaders rang up an impressive string of victories during the 1940-41 season, winning a total of 13 games out of 19 scheduled games played. Continuing their record of clean, hard-fought contests, they earned the respect of every team they played by their sportsmanship and unconquerable spirit.

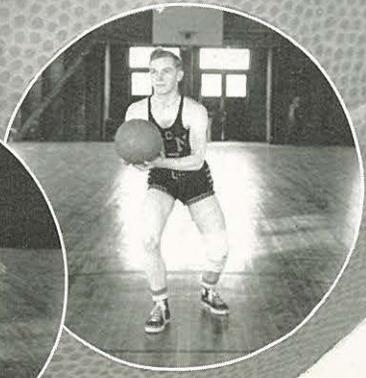

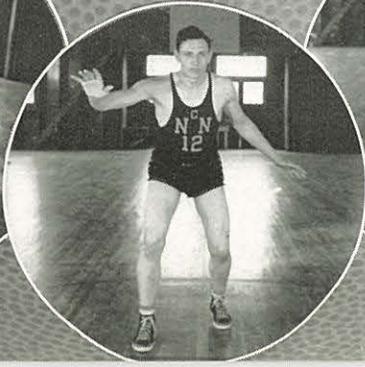

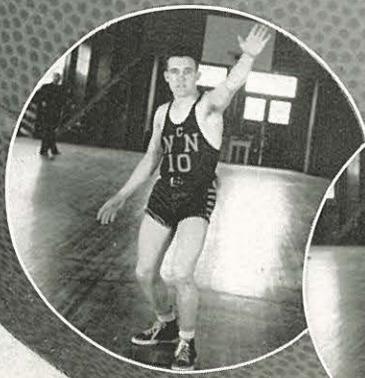

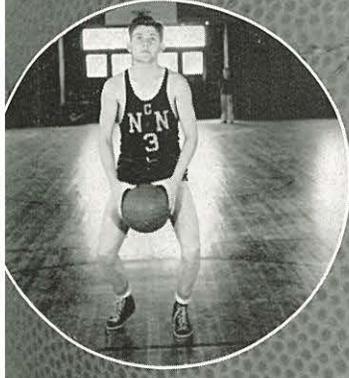

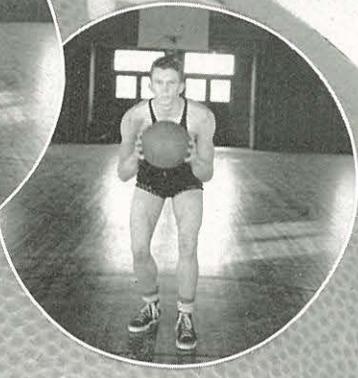

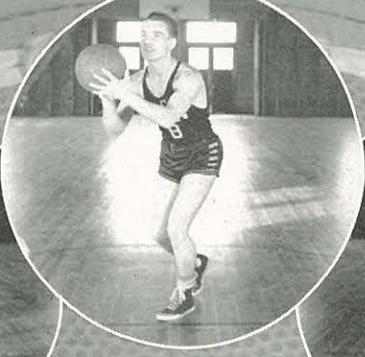

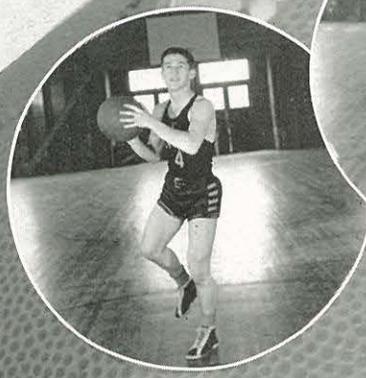

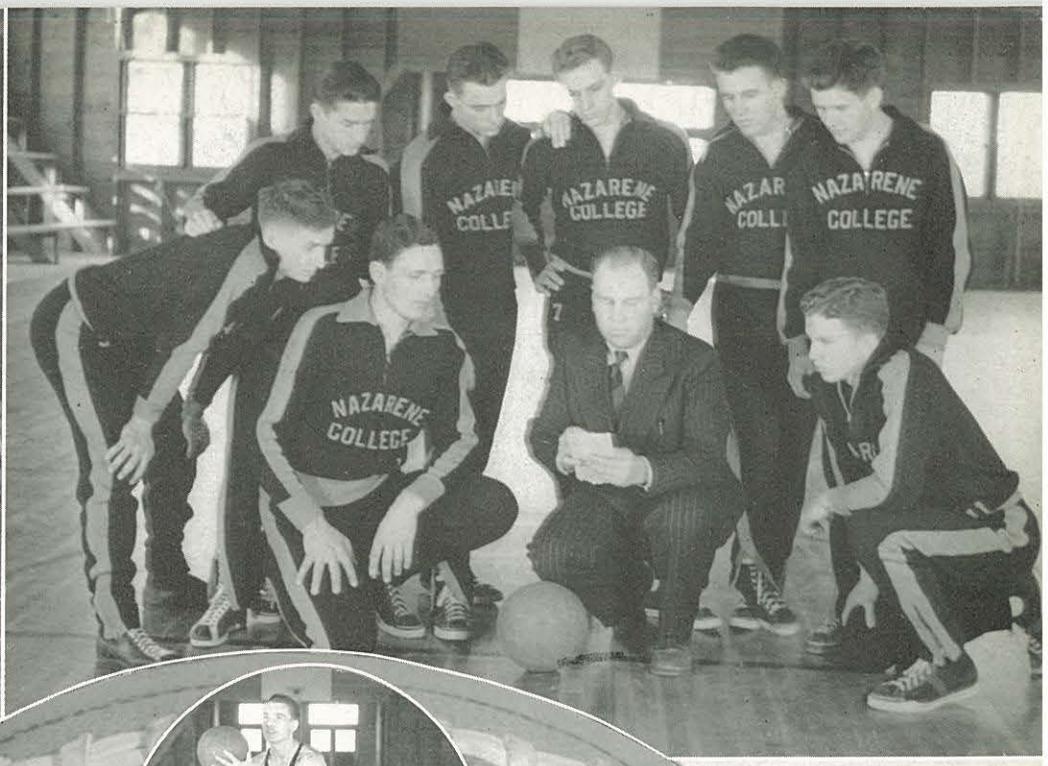

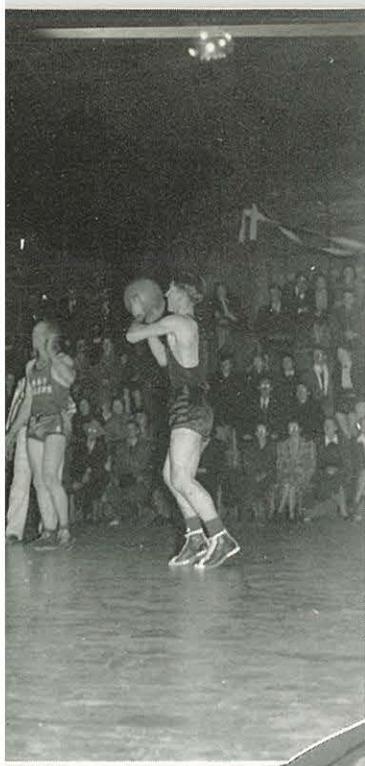

High scoring honors went to Paul Mangum, who netted 246 points, followed by Crawford Vanderpool with 215 points. Totaling the number of points scored during the entire season reveals the following: Crusaders, 923; opponents, 785; or a margin of 138 points in favor of the Crusaders.

Two of the most thrilling home games of the entire season were those played against the Eastern Oregon Normal squad and the College of Idaho quintet. The Crusaders lost the former game, after a hard-fought contest, 48 to 38, but won the C. of I. game 58 to 44, with a barrage of superb shooting and professional ball handling. The clowning Harlem Globe Trotters, professional negro team, played the Crusaders again this year, and furnished a capacity crowd with an evening of fun and entertainment.

With the exception of Earl Mosteller, who played his last season this year, the entire first string squad will be back again next season, assuring N.N.C. fans a season of fast, flashy, winning basketball. Coach Adler spoke highly of the team's performance this season and commented, "Next year we will face just as tough a schedule as we had this season, and I believe we have a good chance of improving our record."

Track

"4-40! All out for the 4-40!" was the cry we heard from the athletic field. Shouts of this nature are perhaps responsible for the marked increase of participation in track last spring.

Competition was severe, taxing all the strength and ability the tracksters could trot out, and resulted in five previous records being broken and one tied. An additional enticement for winning was the promise of five dollars to any who set a new record.

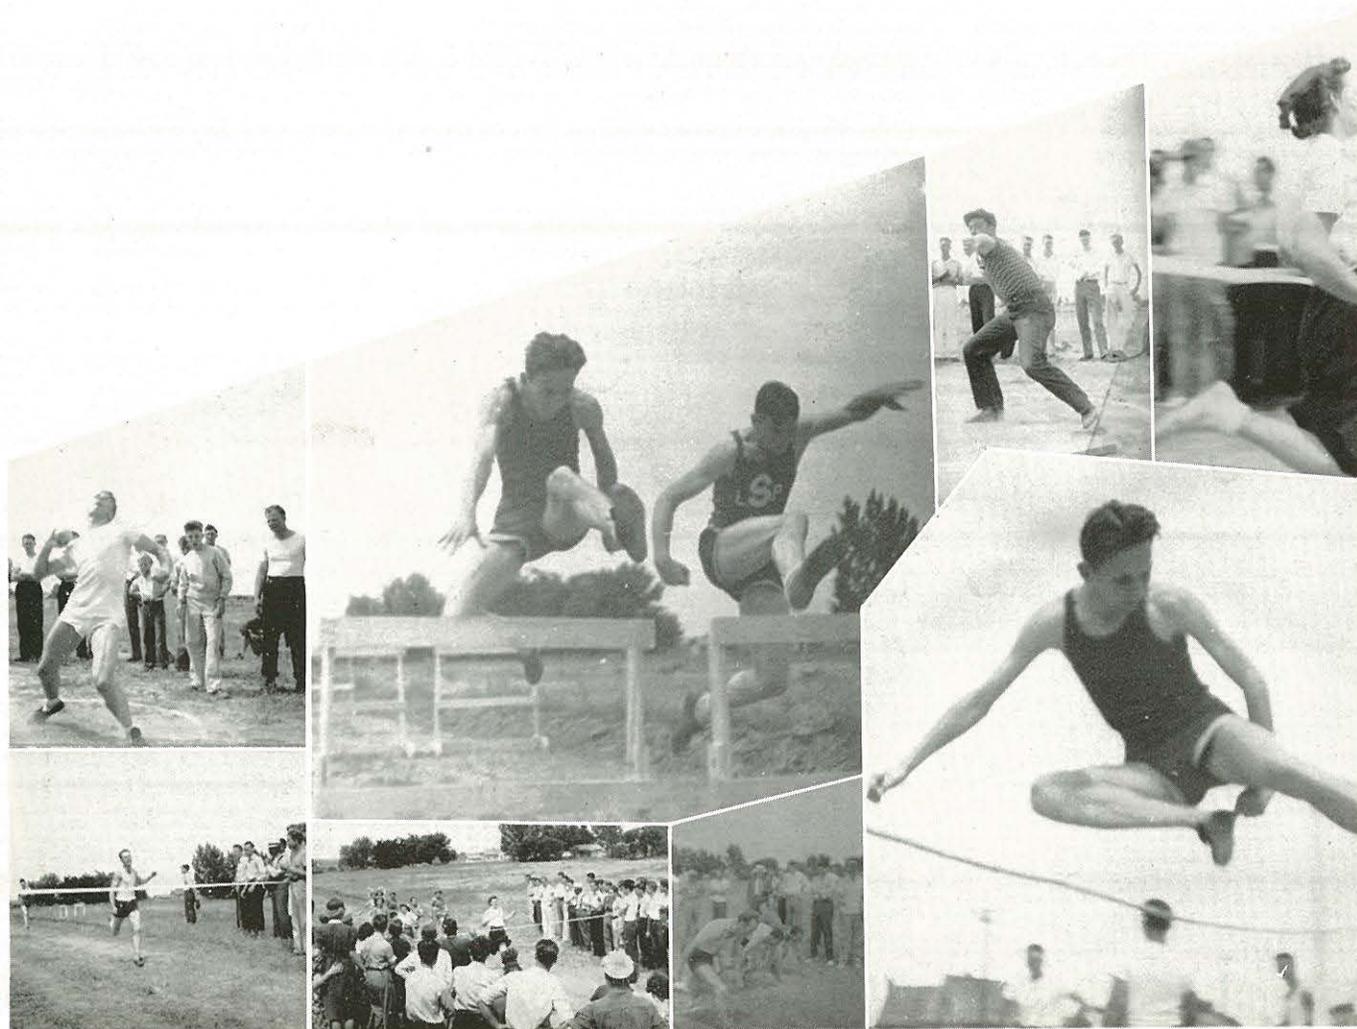

Don Kelly, S.L.A., was the top man, breaking two records and tying one. Mastering a final spurt of energy, he tied the record on the 100-yard dash at 10.5 seconds. Probably his excellent form was responsible for his breaking the record on the 200-yard hurdles at 23.9 seconds. Topping this off, he brought the crowd to its feet by taking the 220-yard dash at 23.7 seconds.

N.N.C. has some splendid girl athletes within her bounds, attested to by Elizabeth Gunter, L.S.P., as she cleared the bar in the high jump at 4 ft. 5 in., and Dixie Schwab who took the broad jump to set a record of 12 ft. 9 in. By the way, Dixie was the high point winner of the track meet, carrying off 21 points for the A.D.P.'s.

A prominent senior of last year and an all-city star of Seattle, Ken Meenach, Olympian, simply flew over the high hurdles to establish a new registry of 17.2 seconds.

Glenn Fuson participated in more events than any other entree and came out with 20 1-12 points for the S.L.A.'s.

Here's looking forward to another high season this spring with more records broken!

Minor Sports

Perfume in the air—a spring in the turf—a restlessness in all nature. It's springtime; "unlaxing" time.

A walk across the campus reveals the certain fact that it's time to be up-and-doing. Studies? Well—yes—they have their place. But right now, let's just—forget 'em.

Across the grass, beneath the trees with their feathered, warbling inhabitants, several students are swinging golf clubs and sending little white pellets bouncing across the course for a "hole-in-one"—we'll hope.

But what's that? I just heard someone call "Love game!" Sounds interesting. Let's investigate. Yes, it is a tennis game—and it looks like a fight to the finish as the two contestants dash from one corner of the court to another.

At Morrison Hall a group of shuffle board enthusiasts are shouting encouragement to the four players who are sending the wooden disks scraping across the court for a 10— or —10 off!

Adjourning to Gideon Hall we find two students engaged in a battle of ping-pong. May the best man win!

Near by, the mighty men of the institution, the College Weight Lifting Club, are lifting loads—not off their minds, but off the floor. (Byron Lee, champion, just lifted 240 pounds above his head. Let's leave before he drops it.)

Looks as if there's something for every person to do—and they are doing it.

G'bye now.

Street cars don't stop at this corner.

Maybe tomorrow, Axie.

Do they serve those at N.N.C.?

This needs explaining!

"The Farmer in the Dell."

Afternoon smack.

The "Happy Family."

Thanksgiving.

Me 'n Silver.

"My friends . . ."

Daisies are so cute!

Fun!!!

The Lone Eagle.

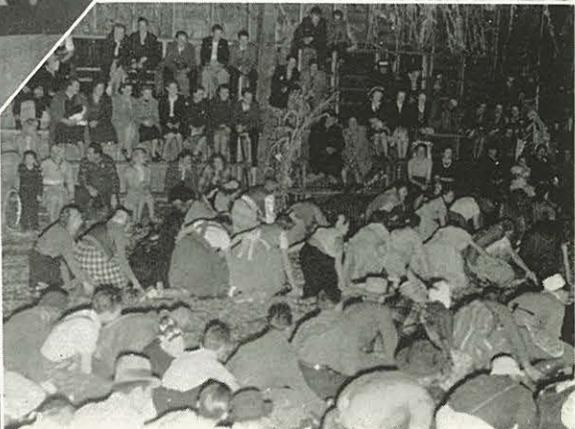

The suitor suits.

"What shall It Profit?"

Triple Alliance.

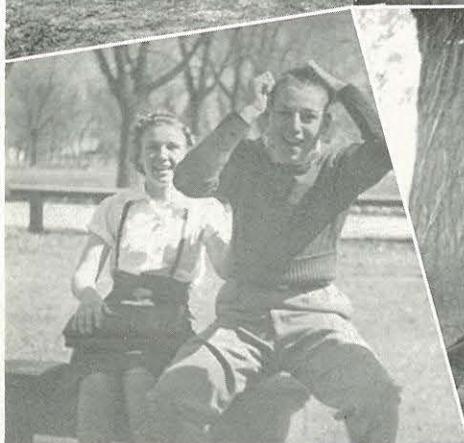

Freshman Fun.

"Wait till I get my shoes."

Eddie's been fooled before.

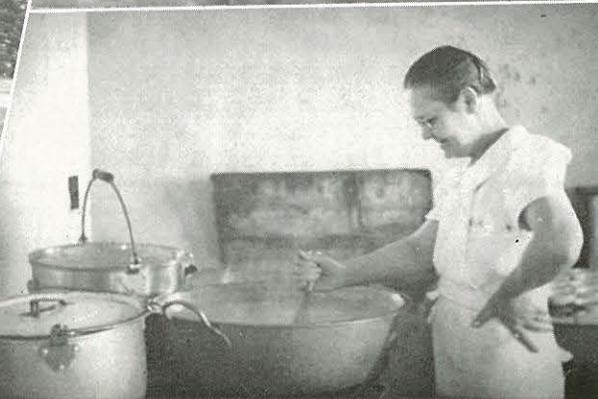

Hair today and gone tomorrow.

Quite a racket!

Triple threat.

Who's afraid of the bench?

Gravy? Something different.

Chin up.
